PREFACE.

The present volume is the first step towards supplying, or attempting to supply, a want long felt both by the Government and the public. The archives of the Bombay Government contain mines of information for the historian and the administrator, but at present no administrator has the slightest knowledge of the contents of the Record Office nor has he any means of acquiring the knowledge. Problems regarding agriculture, forests, manures, assessments, have all been discussed by men of ripe knowledge and experience, but the solutions are a sealed book to the present generation. Geographical information of the greatest value now lies buried and forgotten in numerous volumes. The minutes of the distinguished men who have ruled this Presidency form a storehouse of valuable knowledge regarding the civil and judicial administration of the land. There is hardly a question regarding administration which has not been discussed by them, and their opinion would be of great value in moulding the administration of the day; but the minutes are scattered over a number of bulky volumes, and it is impossible to get at a particular minute without searching forty or sixty large folios of the year. There is no catalogue but a manuscript Inventory Book founded on no scientific principle, and it is impossible to find by it a particular document whose nature and class is known. The oldest records regarding the Factories have no indexes, and therefore to know their contents every line of them has to be read. Some of the later volumes have indexes at the end, but in other cases there is an index of a particular year covering many volumes. The indexes are meagre and generally inaccurate. The Bombay Government ordered the present volume to be prepared as the first step towards remedying the above deficiencies. It contains a minute account of the contents of the more important records from the year 1630 to 1780. For its preparation some hundreds of volumes have been read. I trust the work now begun will be continued when the records are removed to the new offices built for them; and that in course of time the Bombay Records will be classified, arranged and registered in a scientific manner. This will save the wages of those officials who are now employed in a blind search for documents, and it will also save printing numerous reports the publication of which is necessary only as long as there is no well organized Record Office. The catalogue has been formed after the model of the alphabetical arrangement of the Public Records recommended by the Select Committee appointed to inquire into the state of the Public Records of the United Kingdom.

The Bombay Records are at present classified under the following heads :—

I.—Diaries.

II.—Outwards or Order Books.

III.—Inwards or Letter Books.

IV.—Minute Books or Proceeding Books in Council.

V.—Honorable Court's Inwards or Despatches from the Honorable Court.

VI.—Honorable Court's Duplicate Inwards or Duplicates of Despatches from the Court.

VII.—Honorable Court's Outwards or Despatches from Government to the Honorable Court.

VIII.—Honorable Court's Rough Outwards or Rough Drafts of Government Despatches to the Court.

IX.—Returns and Statements.

X.—Compilations or Proceedings of Government compiled under distinct heads.

XI.—Foreign Idioms, Records or Records in Foreign languages.

XII.—Foreign Powers, or Extracts and Selections, connected with Foreign Powers, as well as copies of Treaties connected with them.

XIII.—Selections or Books and papers that do not belong to any classified records.

XIV.—Surveys.

XV.—Shipping.

XVI.—Registers, or Books of Grants, Contracts, Passes, Cowls and Commissions.

XVII.—Bundles, i.e., Records tied up in bundles.

XVIII.—Printed Publications.

It has seemed to me wisest to maintain the present arrangements, and a column has therefore been given to show to what head under the present classification each particular volume belongs.

It is my pleasing duty to acknowledge the valuable assistance rendered to me in the preparation of this volume by Mr. Purushottam Balkrishna Joshi. My task has been to read the folios for the purpose of making the selections for the three volumes of calendars of State papers which have been printed, and on him has fallen the task of making a more minute analysis for the catalogue. The analysis has been checked by me and moulded into shape for the Press. The proof sheets have been carefully collated with the original volumes and every effort made that the catalogue should be both full and accurate.

G. W. FORREST.
